Key Takeaways

Participants were asked:

“What was the most useful part of the training for you?”

The responses:

- ✓ “The role plays and experience of the trainers. They know what they are doing. Real-life experience. Not trained “speakers”.”
- ✓ “Learning how to take a step back and think about your organization’s priorities, the counterpart’s priorities, (and) walkaways.”
- ✓ “Understanding the person on the other side of the table.”
- ✓ “I found the group case studies and role play to be very effective in understanding and practicing the critical thinking skills and steps in negotiating.”

Notable Comments

Participants were encouraged to share additional thoughts about their training experience. Notable comments included:

- ✓ “Very engaging and fun experience! Looking forward to applying the frameworks.”
- ✓ “I feel more confident that I have the tools to be successful. The key will be in the practice and application.”
- ✓ “I absolutely LOVED this course. I found the material to be extremely interesting and relevant in my professional work and day-to-day interactions. The instructors, Joanna and Stu, were exceptional and added a creative spin to topics, which led to some valuable and insightful conversations amongst the group. I left day 3 feeling motivated and excited to engage in further negotiations, confident I have new skills to apply. Thank you, Joanna and Stu!
